The musical score is written in 2/4 time with a key signature of one flat (Bb). It includes piano accompaniment for both hands and a vocal line. The tempo is marked 'Modto'. The score features a 'VAMP' section and dynamic markings such as 'f' (forte) and 'p' (piano). The lyrics are arranged in two verses, with the first verse starting with '1 Now what I'm goin' to tell to you are things my ole man' and the second with '2 Yes, dad-dy said he had re-la-tions thro' out man-y'. The lyrics continue with 'said — And it makes no dif-frence. what you think re-mem-ber Fa-ther's lands — He said he was a fos-ter bro-ther to ole Bill Ker-' and 'dead — Yes, pa-pa dear could tell some tales and he'd al-ways be- sands — He al-so said "To show you son, just how my rec-ord'.

One time my ole man told to me a tale that sounded great
 He said his great, great grand-dad was the first great heavy-weight
 That he fought Jack Johnson's grand-dad at three hundred pounds
 And after a hard battle, won in seven hundred rounds

4

He said "Son they were fighting some, those two big strapping bucks
 They fought three days and nights son, and they fought with their bare knucks"
 And from that fight there came a phrase that my ole man just loves
 That phrase you hear about a man "being handled without gloves"

Here's what my old man told me about my dear Aunt Karo Kate
 She was chief cook for "King Five Up" in some big African state
 One day King Five Up killed Aunt Kate, a story sad but true
 'Cause she spilled six quarts of mucilage in King Five Up's ostrich stew

I recollect one Christmas Eve my old man came home full
 And swore he was a second cousin to old Sitting Bull
 Another time they made him mad, and up he spoke says he
 My great grand uncle's son-in-law was kin to Booker T.
